Introducing Integrity

Integrity helps worldwide governments and organisations to increase the value, impact and sustainability of their programming through measuring and understanding performance and context.

We use Monitoring, Evaluation and Learning (MEL) approaches to help our clients achieve their goals on individual projects, programmes and across whole portfolios. We build MEL systems that match their organisational rhythm, in order to strike a balance between rigour, resources and practicality. We help our clients to understand what they have achieved and why, through context-rich information and lessons designed for fast-paced environments; and how to use evidence from delivery to learn and improve and to make better informed decisions on projects, programmes and policies.

We offer tactical, strategic and organisational support so that we can assist our clients at all levels of their operations.

Further information about Integrity can be found at www.integrityglobal.com.

Scope of Work

Integrity is increasingly working with diverse UK government departments and agencies, including those with a greater focus on UK domestic operations. This complements our deep international track record in providing MEL, research, data and knowledge management, advisory and other services.

To respond to this new strategic focus, we are building a network of part-time and full-time consultants to support the implementation of our projects (short and long-term inputs) and position ourselves for our upcoming pipeline.

Interested candidates may also indicate interested in related, upcoming staff positions.

Your Experience and Expertise

You will have:

- Solid experience in monitoring, evaluation and learning (MEL), in the domestic market.
- Experience in theory-based approaches to evaluation.
- Technical expertise and a professional qualification in at least one of the following areas: regional development, local development; urban development; economic development; entrepreneurship; environment; inclusive growth.
- Strong communication skills, including with non-technical stakeholders. Relevant experience in facilitating discussions with multidisciplinary teams is an asset.

- A track record of M&E services to high profile UK domestic programmes, working closely with government departments and ministries including BEIS, MHCLG, DHSC, HO, DFT, DIT and others.
- Ideally, and understanding or experience in a range of modern data tools and techniques; for example SQL, STATA, SPSS (for data analysis), PowerBI (for visualisation), and cloud and open source data pipeline tools and languages such as Python.
- Experience in agile project management and strong problem solving and analytical skills.
